A Third Way Beyond Capitalism and Communism

PUBLISHED FORTNIGHTLY HELP BUILD THE PAPER - PAY THE £1 SOLIDARITY PRICE.

Ex-servicemen and young girls pushed to the ground by riot-police as official thugs break-up religious service.

REMEMBRANCE SUNDAY OUTRAGE

THE METROPOLITAN POLICE pulled every trick in the book to turn the National Front's traditional Remembrance Day Parade on Sunday, November 8th into a bloody riot. Only the discipline and self-restraint of the NF stewards and supporters saved this solemn commemoration of Britain's war dead from ending in widespread public disorder.

The police provocations began months ago, and became more and more serious. From February onwards, they IGNORED a dozen letters and phone calls from the NF asking for the usual planning meeting to iron out any problems.

When a meeting finally took place they REFUSED to make the arrangements which have allowed this parade to pass off peacefully for 20 years. And they INSULTED the NF negotiators.

On Remembrance Sunday itself, the police tried to intimidate NF supporters who arrived at the form up point early. They ABUSED people who insisted on their right to assemble. Police officers BLOCKED OFF pavements to force people away from the NF Flag Party and the Oldham Drum Corps who were to lead the parade.

The police then tried to force the National Front organizers to allow on the march 8 named individuals who had been told in advance that they would not be allowed to attend. This was because they were all expelled from the Movement two years ago for a variety of reasons. This group included thieves who stole NF funds, ideologically unacceptable elements such as a convinced Nazi with a conviction for painting up a swastika and a slogan on a scout hut, and a man proven to have been working in conjunction with the Special Branch, Britain's sinister and shadowy political police.

The misguided followers of this corrupt clique would have been allowed to join the march in order to make sure that it went ahead, but the presence of the 8 was wholly unacceptable. For the police to try and force the National Front to accept such creatures on its parade to honour Britain's war dead in two World Wars was an outrage. Yet our refusal to agree to this insult was their excuse for their final ploy.

The officers in charge then announced that the march was BANNED because the organizers would not agree to this demand, even though they had no power to do so as traditional parades are exempt from the Public Order Act. Then when the NF's National Directorate announced that the non-denominational service of Remembrance would be held there and then, the top cops ordered their men to BREAK UP the NF service. Van loads of police, with riot gear deliberately on show, were DRIVEN into the back of the crowd and those who protested were PUSHED AND SHOVED.

As NF members joined in the singing of the hymn, Eternal Father, Strong to Save, mounted police in full riot gear THREATENED to charge the crowd. Ex-servicemen and young girls were among those PUSHED to the ground while singing by foul-mouthed louts in blue.

NOT PROVOKED

In spite of all this, hundreds of National Front activists and supporters refused to be provoked and so denied the police the riot which they wanted, and the bloodshed and mass arrests which would have followed. The gathering dispersed quietly without a single arrest. The dignity of the day was maintained in spite of police provocation.

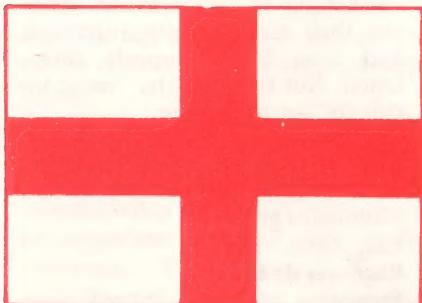

The police then refused to allow a small delegation of members of the National Directorate and an ex-serviceman to go privately to the Cenotaph to lay a wreath and to pay their respects. But the National Front never gives up. So as dusk was falling, a wreath laying party, led by Directorate members Nick Griffin, Graham Williamson, Derek Holland and David Gobell, was finally able to get through.

The wreath was laid by World War II Far East veteran, Jack Hetherington. Jack threw his medals away in disgust at a System which has betrayed the sacrifice of many of his comrades, and has been an active member of his local unit for many years. As he left the Cenotaph, he was congratulated by former NF President, Blaise Wyndham, who had gone to Whitehall to watch the traditional NF service.

Having made sure that the NF had honoured the dead as it always will, the Directorate members left to hold a top level emergency meeting to analyse the day's events, and to plan a rational and effective response. The National Front's message to the political prostitutes at the top of the Met is simple:

We will not be stopped now or ever. You will regret the provocations of November 8th. But we will pick the ground and the time. And in our campaign victory is assured!

DEATH DOLLAR

OCTOBER 1987 saw the beginning of the collapse of the global Empire of the United States of America.

Since 1945, the USA has ruled unchallenged in virtually every sphere of material activity in the world. American military might was dominant in conventional and nuclear terms. The dollar and the image of the Coke can exercised an even stronger grip on economic power and what passes for culture in our diseased civilization.

Vietnam ended the illusion that the United States was invincible. But the swing to the reactionary right which followed, actually led to an increase, rather than a decrease, in American interference in other people's business. From invasions in Central America, to the installation of Cruise missiles in Britain; from supporting reactionary dictators, to using British bases to murder Arab children; the USA under Reagan has been even more aggressive than before.

But for all this show of power, the problems have mounted steadily. Competitors, particularly West Germany and Japan, with other Asian countries, have overtaken the United States in key areas of the economy and high technology. The proliferation of low cost anti-aircraft missiles means that a tiny but fervent group of men can easily inflict unacceptable losses on the once all-powerful US war-machine. And at home, the Black, Hispanic, Red Indian and White racial separatists are beginning to get together an act which will break the Melting Pot society of North America into pieces.

FATAL CONTRADICTIONS

October saw all these fatal contradictions slam devastating blows into the US empire. The worst Stock Market Crash in history happened because the soaring government deficit has now reached the point where it will cripple the decaying US economy. The overvalued dollar has been falling ever since. The economic centre of gravity of the world has lurched from New York to Japan and West Germany. It will not shift back.

The whole world watched as the American 6th Fleet was humiliated by lightly armed Islamic revolutionary guards in the Gulf.

And David Duke, a former Klu Klux Klan leader, announced that his campaign to run as a Presidential candidate was receiving the support of Black separatists as well as Whites. Of course he won't get anywhere, but when racials of different colours start to work together, the writing is on the wall for multi-racism.

But it is not enough for Nationalists in Britain and elsewhere to grin as the cracks appear in America's global hegemony. We must work actively to widen them.

We must point out to our people that the much-vaunted Super Powers' missile deal will only scrap about 5% of their deadly hardware. It is a public relations gimmick, designed to weaken European opposition to being the killing ground of World War Three. We must not let it. Now, as the US weakens, is the time to step up calls for "No Foreign Bases on our Soil."

Everyone can do something. There is a growing feeling among ordinary Americans that, as no-one overseas appreciates the protection of their 'boys', they should be called home. That isolationist lobby grows with every personal or media story of hostility to Americans abroad.

Quite simply, we believe that if thousands of American visitors to Europe each year went home bearing tales of level-headed, calm, yet fanatical hostility to their troops, their system and their dollars, then the isolationist pressure would become irresistible.

Europe's greatest geo-political imperative at the close of this century may be summed up very simply: Yanks Out Now!

IMPORTANT NOTICE. The National Front is continually subject to interference with the post going to and from its main offices. In order to minimize the disruption this State action causes, you are asked to hand in correspondence for every NF operation whenever possible.

If you do have to use the Post Office, always use Recorded Delivery and keep your receipt safely.

SEPARATE SCHOOLING

Dear Sirs,

Re: Dewsbury Plight.

The touching fight by the Dewsbury parents wishing to send their children to a school where they will receive the sort of education they deserve may be merely the small publicized tip of a very treacherous iceberg. Readers will remember that the parents were wishing only to move their sons and daughters to Overthorpe Junior and Infants' School, where 90% of pupils are White. Their present school, Headfield, is over 85% Asian. Both schools lie within Kirklees Education Authority.

At the height of the publicity, the Daily Telegraph acknowledged the situation a little below the waterline. It rightly pointed out that the consequences of all-Asian schools are most vividly demonstrated in the East End of London, where the proportion of non-English speaking children squeezed into a few streets around Spitalfields is among the highest in the country.

In this area there are simply no primary schools where White children are in the majority - a disturbing thought. Even more worrying is the fact that several schools are 100% Asian!

"At one school ... the teachers have not seen a white English child for at least five years. Today all but one of the pupils are Muslims from Bengali or Pakistani homes. The odd one out is a Hindu."

The day at majority Asian schools obviously cannot begin with traditional Christian worship. Instead, an Imam from the local mosque comes in twice a week to deliver instruction in the Muslim faith. Nor is Christmas the religious festival which it is elsewhere. And there are other differences too. Halal meat is served for school dinners; there are separate swimming lessons for boys and girls, and walls are festooned with posters in Bengali. The Telegraph delicately omitted details of the loss of a standard education which the minority British kids must be suffering.

The Education Secretary, Mr. Baker, has been very keen to stress the government's policy on parental choice, yet he claims he is not yet empowered to rectify the Dewsbury trauma. I am sure that the sympathy of many millions of Britons goes out to those mothers and fathers who have the conviction to fight for the right which a British child has to a British education.

Yours faithfully,

D.S.,
Woodford,
Essex.

DEAR EDITOR

Dear NFN,

I hope you like and will print this poem, which I wrote after reading your report on the deadly pollution of my country by nuclear power.

*It's spreading through the green fields of England,
And the hills and the valleys of Wales,
Through the lochs and the glens of Scotland,
And Ulster's pleasant pastures and vales.*

*But why do they dump this by-product in nature's depth?
A cancer causing factor devouring the fair.
For profit, but don't waste your breath
To tell them, for they don't care.*

*Its foetid touch perverts all within range,
Move away, or it will get you.
You might think this seems evil or strange,
But when it comes, there's nothing you can do.*

*They ought to dump it next to parliament,
But that would never come about,
Because like two pound notes they are bent
So we must try to sort it out.*

*We must restore all that is good.
The purity of nature is greatness itself.
Learn to love sea, sky, hill and wood
And not commercial commodities and wealth.*

Yours in Struggle,
G.H., Cymru.

EDITOR'S COMMENT. We fully agree that the struggle of the Dewsbury parents deserves the wholehearted support of every patriot and racialist. But although this case naturally arouses our greatest sympathy because it involves our own people, we must not forget that many Asian families suffer from the same problem in reverse. When their children are in a minority, it is as distressing for them to be submerged in a foreign culture, language and tradition as it is to White families in places like Dewsbury.

The NF stands for the right of children of all races to be educated in their own ways among their own kind. For this reason, we also support the Asian parents who are campaigning for separate all-Asian schools. They, as much as the White kids of Dewsbury, are victims of the multi-racist society which threatens to destroy our different unique cultures by forcing us to mix against our wills.

THE DANGERS OF RACE-MIXING

Dear Friends,

I have just read NF News (issue 93) and I can't refrain from making some remarks about the dangers of race-mixing.

First, I don't share your optimism, particularly when you take France as your model. I'm French and I can assure you that nobody (except Nationalist groups and some conservatives like the Front National) has awoken to the dangers of race-mixing. The cosmopolitan pressure groups are working on all levels of French society - from the freemasons, liberal priests and anti-racist leagues, to the socialist and cosmopolitan press.

The laws you quote (encouraging French parents to have larger families - Ed.) are ineffective compared with the dangers of the "melting pot." When the government takes steps to "ensure the survival of our nation," the only reason is to satisfy an important part of the electorate which voted for the extreme right in the last elections (about 15 - 20%).

You see, even though immigration officially stopped in our country in 1974, clandestine immigration has increased dangerously during the last years. And nationalist ideas are constantly attacked by the powerful multi-racialist lobbies.

I would like to end this letter by greeting your fight. You are not alone in Europe, particularly in France, where more people are awakening to this problem. They see their Celtic heritage (culture and race) is dangerously threatened. Not surprisingly, "racist incidents" are increasing.

The Nationalist fight is the only fight worthwhile. I send you my best encouragements and best Nationalist greetings.

Eddy Raffin,
Bagneres de Bigorre,
France.

FRONT-LINE ACTION

Ulster

PORTADOWN NFN Supporters have just produced another local leaflet. Their last leaflet (featured in NFN 95) was called the Ulster Patriot. It exposed some of the many media lies about the National Front.

The follow up is called Young Patriot. It is designed to attract British Youth to our Cause. And whilst it is specifically aimed at Ulster Youth, it can easily be adapted for other areas.

It is very radical in content: "It is clear that the corrupt internationalist Old Order - which rules NOT for the benefit of the people but for itself - must be swept away. To do that British youth must unite and fight for a National Revolution - the Third Way beyond Capitalism and Communism."

The leaflet concludes that: This can only be done when we are UNITED in a mass movement of young patriots. United together we will take back power, wealth and arms and return them to our long-suffering people.

The NF's potential in Portadown has clearly upset our enemies. The Dublin based Sunday World, edited by Jim Campbell (known as 'The Stick of the North') recently carried a highly inaccurate attack on our Portadown comrades, which managed to get the facts about both the NF's national and local operations completely wrong.

Undaunted by the lies of Campbell, local comrades are now stepping up activities in Portadown and in the surrounding towns and villages of Co. Armagh.

REPRESSION FILE

* BELFAST - Interference with post. The Ulster NF's Bookshop has been experiencing postal problems recently. Would all those who have written to Beacon Books - and have not received a reply - please write again. To facilitate a prompt reply, please include a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

CARRICKFERGUS (Co. Antrim). A new NFN supporter had most of his supply of papers stolen from him by the RUC. More details to follow.

EDUCATION AND SELECTION

THE EAST LONDON Regional Political Officer held the first education meeting for cadres and candidates last month. The book discussed was The Political Soldier. The set of thematic questions and suggested answers issued by the Education & Training Department was found to be very useful.

Other regions must follow suit at once. The cadre system is a difficult thing to set up properly, but the rewards of making such a superior system work are enormous. Other RPO's who have not set in motion their own education programme must do so immediately.

Existing NF News Supporters who are interested in applying for candidate cadre status next year should fill in the form elsewhere in this issue.

TECHNOLOGY

THE TECHNOLOGY fund has made good progress since our last issue. A total of £81 has come in since last month. Some of this is from the familiar stalwarts - to whom much thanks - but it is also pleasing to see new names from different areas.

Our computer wizard has now been given the go-ahead to buy the first modem we need to speed up the production of NF News by enabling us to send text to be typeset over the phone.

Rapid improvements in the technology within our realistic price range are enabling us to be more ambitious in our medium term aims and this is changing the contents of our original Tech. Fund "shopping list." For example, a photocopier for enlarging and reducing text and artwork is now no longer needed when a laser printer will allow us to do all that and much more for a similar total price.

Once the Directorate has had a chance to debate a new set of priorities, NFN will carry a full report on the excellent progress of the fund so far, and on where we need to go from here. But having paid for the modem (about £150), our next target is likely to be much more ambitious. So please enable us to get off to a good start by digging deep again this issue.

There is no doubt that control of information technology is the key to influence and power in the next century. Help the National Front to make the technological revolution serve the National Revolution!

Many thanks to: S.O., Cambs - £10; J.P., B'ham - £2; A.P. & anon friend, Hackney - £10; P.M., Leics - £3; G.K., Gosport - £35; G.R., Lakenheath - £4; D.R., Coleraine - £5; M.B., Weybridge - £2; M. F-G, Scotland - £3; B.H., Cambs - £7.

I wish to support the drive to equip the Movement of the Future with the technology of the future. I enclose as a donation which I do/do not want acknowledged in the usual way in NFN.

Oldham

OLDHAM NF News Supporters are continuing to hit the headlines, with more coverage of their Race campaign and local activities. But such publicity does not come easily. It is the result of large amounts of hard work by the committee and activists.

Their policy of "permanent poster" has attracted particular attention. So many waves of NF posters have appeared in the town that the opposition seem to have tired of tearing them down, so that many now stay up for several weeks. This has led to squeals of anguish from neo-Marxist members of the Oldham Council for Racial Equality.

Undeterred by threats of possible prosecution, the committee have now produced a second batch of posters especially for use in Oldham. A sample is reproduced here. Other units interested in producing something similar for their town can always get help and advice by writing direct to the Oldham P.O. Box.

DEFENDANT TAPES

WOULD Mr. H. Hazlecroft from Gloucester please contact Defendant Tapes with his address.

Will the person from Chippenham, Wilts., who ordered 3 tapes in early October please inform us of his name and address. Please identify yourself by telling us which tapes you ordered and how you paid. Your tapes will then be sent.

Will all persons ordering from any Distributist League member make double sure that they include a legible name and address with their order?

NF PRISONERS

The following NF activists are in prison for politically related offences or because they were given especially harsh sentences by politically hostile judges acting on police advice. Readers are urged to send them messages of support, and to add them to their Christmas card lists, so that they know that they haven't been forgotten.

KEV TURNER, R60123, B Unit, HMP Acklington, Morpeth, Northumberland.

NICK BARBER, N44333, HMYC, Bierton Road, Aylesbury, Bucks, HP20 1EH.

MARK HANNAN. Address as Nick Barber.

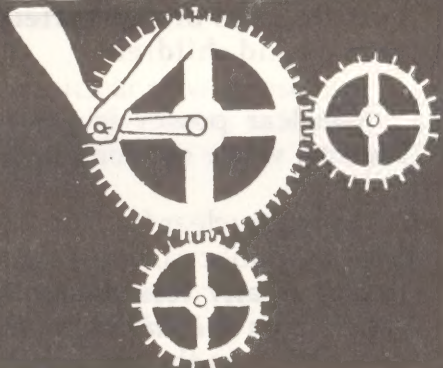

DAVE ROBERTSON, N44331, A Wing, HMP Stocken, Stocken Hall Road, Stretton, Nr. Oakham, Leics. LE15 7RD.

The last three were activists in Bedfordshire who have received vicious sentences for acting in self-defence after being attacked by a gang of Asian thugs wielding iron bars. Let them know you appreciate their sacrifice.

WHAT IS TO BE DONE?

THIS COLUMN is specially designed to keep all NF officials well informed of forthcoming activities and to remind them of what needs to be done over the next two weeks.

All NF officials and activists must therefore make it a top priority to read this column carefully each issue, and then to act on the information.

* RACE CAMPAIGN. Phase 2. Leaflet areas already covered with the Farakhan leaflet with the follow-up against racial attacks. Continue to hit new areas with the first leaflet until stocks run out, then switch to the new one. Send out press statements about the second stage of the campaign with samples of both leaflets and this and the last NFN.

* WANTED: The old Unemployment and General Policy tape produced several years ago by the E&T Dept. Check if your unit has a copy. If so, please hand it in on the next lit. run, or send by Recorded Delivery to PO Box 57.

* PRESS RELATIONS. Check that your list of names and numbers of individual journalists is up to date. Even hostile individuals respond to a personal approach, especially if you can offer them the occasional good story without them having to do any work. Building up such relationships are the key which can open the door to passably fair treatment, especially in local papers. Getting out of the ghetto takes work!

* OPPORTUNITY IN AMERICA. Nationalist family needs young au pair/ nursing care assistant for work in America. Good accommodation, etc in return for part-time work. Other work readily available. Chance of a lifetime, with the opportunity to meet with various brands of American nationalist. For more information, write with brief details direct to: PO Box 16007, Alexandria, VA22302, USA.

* WHAT DO YOU THINK? The Propaganda Dept. needs to have more feed-back, from committees as well as ordinary readers. Let us have more reports on how new NF publicity material goes down in your area. What changes would you like to see? What subjects do you think would be effective in the future? All opinions and constructive criticisms are more than welcome at PO Box 41.

* REGIONAL ANSWER PHONES. These are essential for the efficient collection of the maximum number of "follow ups." The best value machine on the market is the BT Robin at 78.95 from Argos superstores. If there is not one in your area, contact Admin. to buy it for you and deliver it on the next lit. run.

Did You Know..

NUCLEAR POWER IS ACCIDENT PRONE

- * Accidents at nuclear plants and reactors are reported almost every week – what about the ones that don't get reported?
- * Compared to the potential for nuclear reactor accidents, Chernobyl was "quite minor." It is estimated that Chernobyl "was probably substantially less than one per cent as serious as the maximum credible reactor accident in terms of radiation damage to people."
- * There are 13 nuclear reactors within 100 miles of Britain's largest population centre – London. Seven of these reactors are dotted about our coasts, and the other six across the Channel in France. The French reactors are double the size of the largest British reactors.
- * In the event of a major accident, government plans call for the evacuation of named inhabitants living within a one and a half mile radius of the accident site. The Chernobyl evacuations covered a radius of 19 miles. The radiation contamination was felt over 2,000 miles away.

* New government plans deny people the right to radiation monitoring if they fear that they have been contaminated after a major nuclear accident.

NUCLEAR POWER HAS DEVASTATING EFFECTS

- * Disproportionately high incidences of cancer and other radiation-related diseases are clustered around nuclear plants, bases and dumping sites. Remember that these are not just statistics, they are horrific cases of real suffering and agonizing death for many men, women and children.
- * Nuclear power is seriously polluting our land, seas and air. Nuclear waste can remain radioactive for up to 250,000 years.
- * Spent nuclear fuel has been transported up and down the British Isles on public railways since 1962. The term 'spent' does not mean that it is any less dangerous. A "small fraction...inevitably" escapes from the flasks containing it and "will deliver a dose to the population in the vicinity" admit the National Radiological Protection Board.

NUCLEAR POWER IS NOT A VIABLE OPTION

- * Nuclear energy is about 50% more expensive than coal when the full costs are taken into account – so much for cheap energy!
- * Nuclear power supplies only about 4% of our energy requirements at the moment. World supplies of uranium may only last

UNDER THE SHADOW OF DOOM

CONCLUSIONS

Nuclear reactors are extremely complex and inherently dangerous. They require elaborate safety systems which all depend for success on perfect engineering and/or infallible operators. Obviously neither of these exist. It is because of this that nuclear accidents will always happen. When radiation escapes, it kills, usually via cancers. There is no safe dose of radiation.

NO PROTECTION

The government has no realistic contingency plans for the protection of the public in the event of a serious accident, either here or in mainland Europe. It is very doubtful whether such a plan could be devised. Even the Fire Brigades haven't been trained for such a situation or issued with equipment relevant to such a disaster. Not surprisingly, in May 1986, they expressed a vote of 'no confidence' in nuclear power.

Nor are Britain's firemen alone in their rejection of nuclear power. Survey after survey reveals that only a small minority of our population — about 11% — backs the nuclear industry.

This is a welcome display of common sense and it is easy to see why. In crowded islands such as ours, the chances of escape are very slim. Immediate evacuation of cities is impossible. Fall-out shelters are denied to all except those at the very top of the System — and the bosses of the nuclear industry.

NOT ECONOMIC

Despite the cleverly constructed claims of the nuclear industry, nuclear power has proven to be far more costly than any of our other existing sources of energy — and in any case uranium supplies throughout the world will not last long. Our natural fossil fuels will last for several hundred years. Just some of the huge amount of money now wasted in the nuclear nightmare would allow us to clean these industries up and to make them safer for their workforces.

Equally, money saved by scrapping nuclear power must be channelled into researching non-polluting and renewable sources of energy.

WORLD WIDE PROBLEM

The problems posed by nuclear power are not confined to national or even natural boundaries. They are international in scope — from the deadly effects of radiation to the exploitation and coercion of peoples throughout the world.

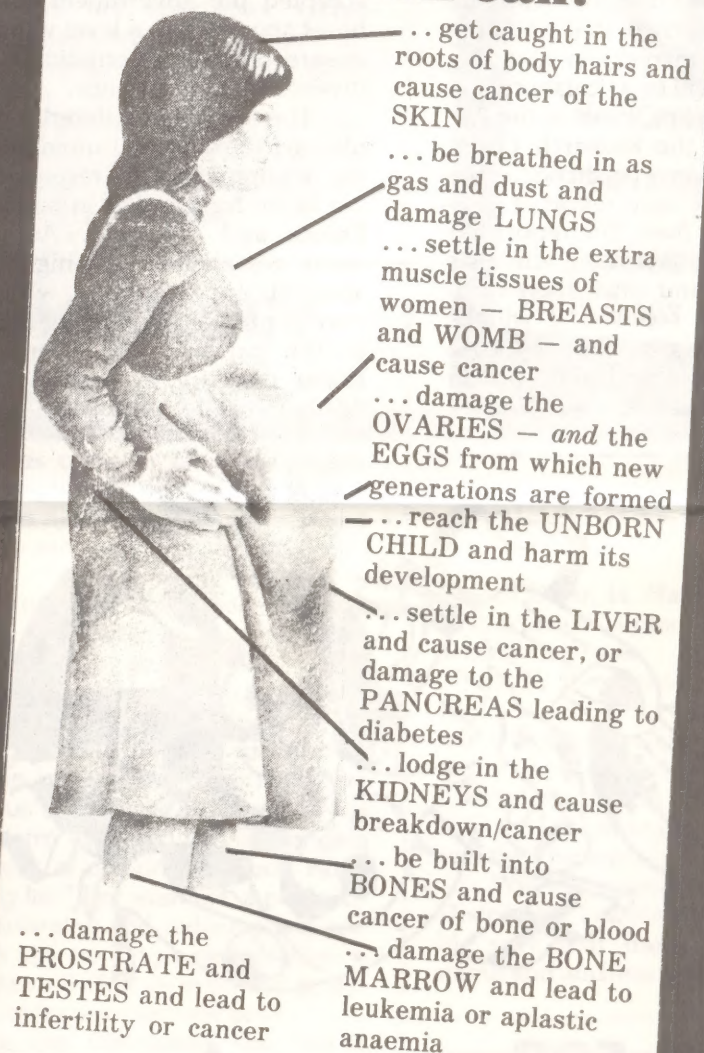

The nuclear industry is a web of vested interests. It reflects everything that is corrupt, greedy and shallow in society. In fact, it mirrors the sick materialist age in which we live.

The nuclear industry and the mentality behind it will not easily be overcome, but over time it must be. The peoples of the world must work together to rid our planet of the shadow of doom which hangs over all life. A Nationalist Britain will take the lead in this crusade.

In the next issue of NFN we look at the alternative to nuclear power

The Hidden Killer

Radiation can:

another 60 years. Yet at least £300 million is spent annually on nuclear power research whilst coal mines are needlessly shut down by the government at an increasing rate. Although world uranium stocks are running low, Britain has coal supplies which will last for 300 years or more.

* Although coal can also cause pollution problems, the technology needed to stop this and to clean up existing pollution already exists — it is in operation in mainland Europe. It is impossible to stop or clean up radioactive pollution.

* Although £300 million is being spent on nuclear power research each year, only £14 million is spent on researching new, safe and clean forms of energy for the future.

NUCLEAR POWER IS OPPRESSIVE

* The nuclear industry is highly secretive and oppressive. In Britain, for instance, the government has changed the law so that testing for nuclear waste dumping sites can go ahead without planning permission and public discussion.

The nuclear industry is unaccountable to the public and requires the highest security possible — this involves armed police, phone tapping and surveillance. The Official Secrets Act is known to have been used to cover up accidents and to prevent the release of information on safety problems. And internationally, the whole nuclear industry is dependent on uranium produced by exploiting peoples such as the Aborigines, Navaho Indians, and Blacks and Bushmen in southern Africa.

SCIENTIFIC RESEARCH

SACRIFICED TO A CORRUPT FINANCIAL SYSTEM

GOVERNMENT CUTS in spending on scientific research are destroying Britain's ability to keep up with the rest of the developed world. One of its leading scientific advisors has become so desperate about the steady destruction of our research and development ability that he has warned that anything less than a sharp increase in spending in this vital field will be a "calamity."

Sir David Phillips, head of the Advisory Board for the Research Councils, made this gloomy prediction at the launch of ABRC's new report A Strategy for the Science Base. The report has been sent to Britain's leading scientists and universities and once their comments have been received it will be passed on to the government in the hope of getting a better deal for British science.

REFUSAL

But many professors and researchers believe that the ABRC has meekly accepted the government's refusal to boost spending to a level which would ensure Britain's international competitiveness in basic science.

The situation is deteriorating rapidly, with top British universities lacking equipment and resources which are taken for granted in countries like France and Germany. As a result, many researchers and highly trained scientists are emigrating, while top science graduates are moving into careers in the parasitic and overpaid City, rather than try to continue their researches on the dole.

The day after the publication of the worrying report, the Trade and Industry Minister, Mr Kenneth Clarke, flatly refused to increase the government's paltry £100 million space research budget. This follows on from the Prime Minister's ruling that no extra funds were available for Britain's space programme, which prompted the resignation of Roy Gibson, the head of the British National Space Centre.

PENNY-PINCHING

If this short-sighted penny-pinching continues, British companies will not stand a chance of winning work on projects such as the Hermes space shuttle, the Columbus space station and the Ariane 5 rocket. Not only will this weaken our economy and high-technology research abilities, but it will also leave Europe as a whole even further behind the USA and the Soviet Union in this vital field.

The danger is so great that even some Tory MP's have joined in the chorus of warning voices. Sir Geoffrey Pattie, Conservative MP for Chertsey and Walton and a former minister for Information Technology, was shocked: "It is literally inconceivable that Britain should continue at the same diminishing level of expenditure, which frankly boils down to us ceasing effective involvement in space."

INEVITABLE DEMISE?

But sadly, Britain's demise as a nation of scientific importance appears inevitable under the continued rule of Mr. Pattie's party. The latest hammer blow came on 12th October, when the government snubbed the most important event in the international space calendar. It did not even bother to send a representative to the opening of the International Astronautical Federation's annual congress in Brighton.

The congress was addressed by the heads of the European, Soviet and American space agencies. The impact already made by Tory cuts in the research budget was shown all too clearly by the fact that under 10% of the scientific and technical papers read to the congress were from Britain.

The hard truth is that Mrs. Thatcher's government is motivated by the penny-pinching materialism of her "grocery store" mentality. Its heroes are the City sharks who 'make' millions with a telephone call. The enormous potential of modern science to provide the innovations needed to build a better society means nothing to these smug and short-sighted little politicians. They've made it to the top on the backs of the rest of us, so why should they bother about what will happen in the next century?

STUCK FOR CHRISTMAS PRESENTS ?

AMID all the Americanized junk on sale in the run up to our modern commercialized Christmas, many Nationalists must despair of being able to find presents which are worthwhile, either to give or to receive. The Distributist League is beginning to fill this gap, but its range is still very limited and obviously political. But this year at least one small commercial company is offering some really beautiful alternatives, taken straight from the culture of these islands.

Past Times is a mail order catalogue with a difference. On its cover it describes its contents as "a unique collection inspired by Britain's heritage - from Celtic jewellery to Victorian toys." And in fact, this modest description doesn't begin to do justice to the wide range of top quality replicas "from our rich British heritage of art and craft."

STUNNING

There are pieces of stunning silver jewellery, including a variety of ornate

Then help Cultural rebirth !

Celtic Crosses, the White Horse of Uffington hill figure, designs from Pictish stone carvings and intertwined Viking animals.

There are scarves based on Roman mosaics; a full replica of the 12th century Isles of Lewis chess set; a medieval calendar; tapes of Elizabethan music; Victorian Christmas tree decorations, and a range of products based on designs by the patriotic socialist William Morris. Nothing is cheap, but everything is top quality. If the rebirth of cultural nationalism is an essential prerequisite for the growth of political nationalism, then the growing popularity of ventures such as this must be a good sign for the future. There is no overtly political nationalist message in the catalogue, whose author probably objects to some of our views as much as we do his inclusion of a tape of speeches by the drunken war criminal Winston Churchill, or items glorifying British imperialist wars in Sudan and South Africa.

But having said that, this catalogue is sure to provide at least one irresistible gift for any Nationalist, as well as being delightful to browse through in its own right. So why not boycott Marks & Spencers this Christmas? Write for a catalogue from: Past Times, Water-Ma-Trout, Helston, Cornwall, TR13 0PD.

SERIOUS, DEDICATED, DISCIPLINED, AND IDEOLOGICAL ?

You must mean the NF comrade

THE TRANSFORMATION of the National Front from an amateurishly run parliamentary election machine into a disciplined movement of highly dedicated cadres within a larger organization of Supporters and Friends, has begun to be noticed. The process has only just started and has a very long way to go before it is complete. But a number of items in different newspapers and magazines have shown that our opponents in the media are beginning to realize that the National Front is much more than just another political party.

The latest to give a hint of this fact is the editor of our old 'friend' the Oldham Evening Chronicle. In an editorial criticizing the claim by the Black lesbian Labour councillor, Linda Bellos, that the Thatcher government would build gas chambers for people like her, the paper referred in passing to "...the National Front cadres who take themselves so seriously and the rather larger rent-a-mob of Trots and the like who are available for a good shout on all occasions."

It is interesting to note the distinction the paper makes between the image of the NF cadres as serious, dedicated and, by implication, disciplined and ideological, and the Reds as a mindless mob.

Considering that the NF only adopted the cadre system one year ago, and that shortages of money and manpower have inevitably slowed its application in many areas of its operation, it is very heartening that its impact is already apparent to our opponents.

This gradual improvement in the NF's image is long overdue and no doubt will bear fruit in the future as it becomes more obvious. It serves as the best reply to the trimmers and deadbeats who attacked the cadre concept as "elitist." And it must also make every member of the NF's organization, at whatever level, even more determined to continue to develop the new structure and to complete the transformation. There's a long way to go, but at least we've made a start.

HOME AFFAIRS

One Law For Them

THE STOCK MARKET CRASH and BP shares issue shambles produced a remarkable U-turn by the Thatcher government. For nearly ten years, they have lectured us all about the "evils" of state intervention in economic matters to protect the jobs and futures of individuals or communities.

It would be wrong, they said, to protect British Steel workers from the threat of foreign competition. Wrong, they said, to keep open British mines when non-unionized labour in Communist Poland could produce cheaper coal. Wrong, they said, to spend more money on helping the young, the old and the sick.

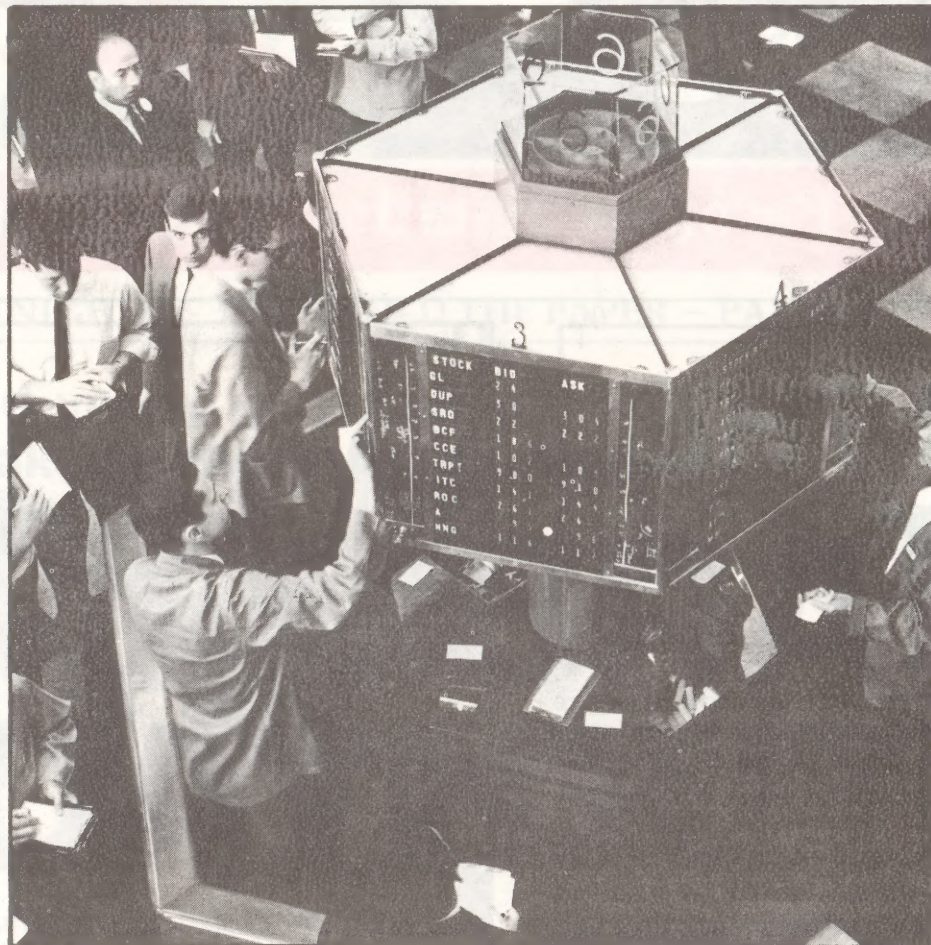

But in October 1987, the victims changed. No longer did the ruthless logic of capitalism hit at workers, children, unemployed youth or frail pensioners. All of a sudden the people on the receiving end of market forces were merchant bankers in Rolls Royces and Yuppie stockbrokers driving round Surrey in their Porsches.

And all of a sudden, the Tories find it quite acceptable for the government to intervene to protect the victims of the absurd capitalist system. All of a sudden, the Chancellor announces that the Bank of England will limit the losses suffered by get-rich-quick speculators. Not because some of them were ordinary folk persuaded to get in on Thatcher's privatization swindle, but because if this wasn't done the merchant banks would end up having to buy all the shares themselves and so lose a few of the millions they've already raked in from the knock-down sale of our national assets.

Can you imagine a more revolting sight than a corrupt System breaking its own rules to save the pockets of its own kind?

WORLD AFFAIRS

70 years of betrayal

EXACTLY 70 years ago, the British government agreed, in return for help in financing the First European Brothers' War, to turn Palestine into a Jewish homeland.

This was the result of the infamous Balfour Declaration in which, as the great Jewish author Arthur Koestler pointed out "one nation solemnly promised to a second nation the country of a third." It was also Koestler who pointed out that over 80% of today's Jews have no ancestral link with Palestine at all, being descended from central Asian Khazar converts to Judaism in the 8th Century.

Yet in spite of this, 5 million Palestinians are today scattered in exile, or are held in subjugation by a Zionist army of occupation in their own land.

If the existence of the terror state of Israel on stolen Arab land eventually sparks off World War Three, the British state must take a large measure of the blame.

MASSIVE demonstrations by nearly a quarter of a million Spaniards have filled Madrid twice in the last month, demanding an end to the occupation of the country by American troops and bases.

Spain's socialist Prime Minister was only able to get referendum support for continued Spanish membership of NATO by promising to negotiate massive cuts in the US presence. These negotiations have now begun, and the demonstrations were organized to remind him to keep his promise and not just to make a few token gestures.

Opinion polls show unanimous support for his pledge, although the vast majority go further and call for a total withdrawal of American forces from their country, even if she stays in NATO.

CENR, the National Revolutionary student group based in Madrid has played an active part in building support for the demonstrations.

A Third Way Beyond Capitalism and Communism

PRIDE IN THE PAST

TWO YEARS ON from the betrayal which denied Ulster any role or future in the United Kingdom, it has had one unforeseen effect. As Westminster has made it quite clear that we are no longer considered "British," it has forced many thousands to think long and hard about what our identity really is.

The result has been the dawning of a popular recognition that we have our own unique identity, an identity almost buried by years of overclose association with London — we have discovered that, above all else, we are Ulstermen and Ulsterwomen.

Historical study groups have sprung up or expanded, articles on the ancient history of our land and Cruthinic people have appeared in all sorts of publications, the Red Hand flag has begun to supplant the Westminster union jack as the focus of our loyalty.

The process is slow, but steady. This "birth of a nation" is long overdue and must be encouraged in every way possible. Rediscovery and new pride in our own Ulster achievements, heritage and cultural identity is absolutely essential if our nation is to survive in the dangerous times ahead.

LEARN MORE

Ulsterfolk wanting to learn more about our past could do worse than start at the Ulster Folk Museum at Cultra, Holywood in County Down. This is a magnificent collection of 19 old buildings, ranging from farmhouses and a forge to a church and a terrace of industrial workers' houses from near Sandy Row. All have been carefully removed from their original sites and painstakingly rebuilt in some 70 acres of beautiful countryside. There is also a well-laid out modern museum build-

Rowland St. Belfast, 1960s, showing terrace from which the reconstructed houses were taken.

The best part of a day is needed to do justice to the whole complex and it is quite a long walk, but the effort is really worthwhile. Every Ulster patriot will find inspiration at some point. It might be from understanding how our freedoms have had to be fought for over centuries. Or horror at the living standards of the poorer homes and determination to build a more just nation in the future. Or it could come from seeing how this land was built by the blood and sweat of our forebears, and deciding that it must be passed on to our children in an unbroken chain.

A nation can only have a future if it remembers its past. The Folk Museum at Cultra reminds us that we belong, as our people have always belonged, to the Nation of Ulster.

Opening times and further information on Belfast (0232) 428428.

SHAME OF THE PRESENT

THE FACT that the Anglo-Irish Agreement still stands after two years is the most damning expose possible of the failure of the old Unionist leadership. Think back to all the hot air which rose over Belfast city hall on that incredible day in November 1985, when nearly a quarter of the entire loyalist population vowed to bring down the Agreement.

What went wrong? After the rejection of our 'referendum' vote by Thatcher and the Queen showed that constitutional redress was not an option, why did we just not settle down to organizing to take over our country and running it for ourselves? The determination was there, the ability is still there — we could set up our own alternative government structures and by-pass Westminster completely. So why instead have we been driven to defeat and temporary despair?

Part of the blame lies with the self-centred middle aged middle class, who have put their own cosy life-styles before our national survival. But this in turn is largely the fault of the Unionist leadership. They have done nothing constructive, nothing to convince people that it is worth taking risks because there is a chance of victory.

OBSTRUCTIVE

Worse than that, Paisley and Molyneux have done everything in their power to obstruct genuinely constructive proposals for the struggle for our freedom. And their mindless sectarian bigotry has alienated people abroad, and distracted people at home from the real enemy: the Thatcher State and its institutions and flunkies.

If things do not start to change soon, Ulster will be destroyed forever. And if she is, Paisley, Molyneux and the rest of the fur-coated snobs will be to blame. As 1987 draws to its end, too many of our people hang their heads in despair. It would be better if we hanged those who have failed us!

HOPE FOR THE FUTURE

THERE IS an alternative to despair and defeat. The people of Ulster need not surrender, even though the old leaders have already done so. The hated memory of Lundy should remind us that betrayal from the top need not lead to disaster — provided it is overcome with action from below.

But for ordinary people to fight back, there has to be a fighting organization. An organization with the political experience to produce power-winning strategies and tactics. An organization with the disciplined political structure needed to produce and distribute the publicity material which will co-ordinate mass action. An organization with the ideology to give people something to fight for, instead of asking them to fight a never-ending rearguard action to defend a lost cause.

VISION OF THE FUTURE

That organization is the National Front of Ulster. It is closely linked with the NF on the mainland, but it has its own governing body run by Ulstermen. It has developed its own vision for a decent future for our nation. And it is steadily building the power and influence needed to turn that vision into reality.

A long and bitter struggle still lies ahead. Many of our countrymen and women have never even had the chance to find out what the Ulster NF really stands for, why we believe that independence is the key to the creation of a peaceful, non-sectarian Ulster, or how it can be achieved.

But the message is steadily getting through to the most forward-looking, realistic and idealistic sections of our society, especially among the young.

Even as the night closes in on the failures of the past, a glimmer of dawn can already be seen. Tomorrow will be ours!

"INSTANT" is the word which sums up the ethics of today's consumer society. It is implanted in the minds of millions of people as the ultimate good. Instant "fun" from the TV. Instant "culture" from the pop video. Instant "earnings" from Stock Exchange gambling. You don't even have to leave your armchair — you can do it all by pushing a few buttons.

This instant consumer society has infected millions of our people with the false notion that you can get something worthwhile without sacrifice, and that nothing is really worth working for. The National Front stands against this deadly mental paralysis.

We believe that worthwhile things and a healthy society can only be achieved through dedication and sacrifice. We believe that the future survival of the British peoples demands the creation of a new kind of Man — A man who does not demand instant satisfaction, but who measures his worth in terms of his contribution to the life of the folk community.

LONG STRUGGLE

We welcome the fact that this involves a long and hard struggle against State repression and popular apathy, for this struggle strengthens our militants and our movement.

The National Revolutionary is like a mountain climber, whose only goal is to reach the peak whatever the cost. And like the mountain climber, what joy is there in reaching the summit if all you have to do is to push a button and be transported without effort to any remote mountain peak? The achievement of getting to the top would be so devalued that we could no longer understand the glory of the scene before us.

We are small in numbers now, but the steep mountain path to National Freedom beckons us. We may briefly stop and glance back to get our bearings, but we must always look forward towards the sunlit uplands towards which our movement strives.

Our seek the pure air of a healthy folk community, where everyone can be involved in running their own lives — where everyone is an active member of society. We will leave below us the filth and squalor of the consumer society.

PRIDE AND HOPE

We have no "instant" success to offer; no material gains to be won; no cheap fame on the box. But we do offer the pride of doing what is right. And we offer hope to a lost people.

More than that, we offer the chance to get involved and to help build a new nation. We intend to build a society based on freedom and social justice — a society where there is opportunity for all, but privilege for none.

The National Front believes that to be involved in the struggle for these ideals in the only thing which can give real meaning and dignity to life in today's disjointed consumer nightmare.

Where do you stand? Will you be one of the passive millions slumped in front of the latest TV soap — or will you put pride and purpose back into your life by getting involved in our great struggle?
